Overview	Response
Gen2's training expertise continues unchanged	The specialist technical training you rely on remains exactly as you know it. Gen2 continues to operate as a separate entity, maintaining our deep expertise and focused approach to technical training. The industry-specific knowledge, quality delivery, and specialised solutions that set us apart continue without interruption.
Your team stays with you	The same experts who understand your technical requirements stay with you. Your existing Gen2 contacts remain your dedicated partners. The team members who know your industry needs, technical specifications, and organisational objectives continue to support you every step of the way. For any questions, we're here on: • Email: sales@gen2.ac.uk • Phone: 01900701300
Training programmes and apprenticeships continue seamlessly	Every programme, every apprentice, every commitment continues as planned. Your apprenticeship contracts remain with Gen2 with no impact on your apprentices. All training programmes across our core specialisations continue unchanged: Gen2 Core Industries: • Engineering • Nuclear • Business Administration • Teaching Assistants Through City & Guilds Training: • Electrical • Rail • Transport • Construction • Project Management
Quality standards remain rigorous	The same high standards you expect, the same Ofsted rating you trust. Our rigorous approach to training delivery and quality assurance continues unchanged. This announcement doesn't affect our Ofsted rating or any of our quality commitments to you.

Your contracts and admin stay simple	Everything continues on the same terms. Your contract with Gen2 remains unchanged. From 31 October 2025, Gen2 will become part of City & Guilds Limited, which is joining the PeopleCert group. We'll send you a formal notification shortly after this date. Our invoicing, administrative processes, bank details, and website all remain the same – no changes to how we work together day-to-day.
In short: The Gen2 you trust continues to deliver the same specialist technical training excellence	We continue to operate independently while benefiting from being part of a larger organisation that supports our continued growth and innovation in technical training.
